ANOTHER MASSACRE IS A POSSIBILITY

Seventy-five Thousand Jews in Russia To Be Driven Out In June.

Odessa, May 19.—Every Hebrew merchant and his family doing business outside the pale in Russia must leave the country before June 1 or be expelled. This edict has been pronounced with the sanction of Czar Nicholas, and if resistance is met with on the part of the Jews there will in all probability follow another massacre which will shock the entire civilized world.

The anti-Jewish sentiment in Russia is intense and especially among the southern provinces bordering the Black sea. The hatred of this sentiment is Kiev, sometimes spelled Kiief. The city is situated on the Dnieper river and is in one of the richest agricultural districts of Russia, commanding a large trade. It is one of the oldest cities in Europe.

The present trouble has arisen through jealousy on the part of Russian 75,000 JEWISH MERCHANTS AND THEIR FAMILIES IN RUSSIA OUTSIDE THE PALE TO BE EXPELLED JUNE 14.

When merchants over the success of their Jewish competitors. In order to restrict the Jewish enterprise and protect Russian merchants certain districts were designated in which Jews could conduct their business, but outside of which in Jewish merchant view of Kiev, Russia, on the Dnieper, the hotbed of anti-Jewish sentiment, Czar Nicholas of Russia, Lower left, Representative Harrison, (Dem.) of New York, who has introduced a bill in congress to have the situation in Russia investigated by the United States. could engage along commercial lines except through a special grant from the czar. Now these special grants are to be entirely withdrawn, which will restrict the Jews to such districts as lie within the pale. In America Jewish bodies have organized to assist the services of the state department at Washington in behalf of the Russian Jews. Through Representative Harrison of New York a bill was introduced requesting the president to use friendly offices with the Russian government to prevent the recurrence of such outrages as have been brought on in the past. The bill was referred to the committee on foreign affairs and the state department has called the United States consul here to learn the facts in the case.

The Russian authorities claim to have the situation thoroughly in hand and maintain they will be able to prevent any further outbreaks of the Jews, but in view of the past experiences and, especially with the strong anti-Jewish sentiment prevailing, many people think there will be trouble when the expulsion is attempted.

London, May 19.—A spirit of unrest pervades the metropolis today, for the minds of the people, high and low, are dwelling on tomorrow's solemn, stately, historic ceremonies. London is fairly teeming with visitors. Rooms for transient guests are demanded for almost the whole of the city. The funeral will pass. Newspapermen are here from every nook and corner of Europe and from America as well. Every point of vantage commanding a view of the funeral procession will probably be occupied at an early hour tomorrow morning. The determination of the people to witness the grand military pageant and the great gathering of the royalty of Europe is pronounced by officials to be without a parallel in their experience.

SIX NEW BISHOPS ARE CONSECRATED

UNUSUAL SCENE TAKES PLACE IN ST. PAUL. SOLEMNITY AND SPLENDOR

Archbishop Ireland In Charge of the Ceremonies Which Are Impressive. (By Associated Press.) St. Paul, May 19.—With great solemnity and splendor, for which the Roman Catholic Church is noted during important events, the six new bishops recently appointed by the Pope to fill vacant dioceses in the Province of St. Paul, of which Archbishop Ireland is metropolitan, were consecrated today.

The ceremony took place on the grounds and in the chapel of St. Paul's seminary on the high bluff at the western limits of St. Paul, overlooking the Mississippi River. The bishops consecrated were: Rev. James O'Reilly, of Minneapolis; Bishop of Fargo, N. D.; Rev. John J. Lawler, cathedral of St. Paul, auxiliary bishop of the archdiocese of St. Paul; Rev. Patrick R. Heffron, rector of St. Paul's seminary, Bishop of Winona, Minn.; Rev. Timothy Corbett, of Duluth, Bishop of Crookston, Minn.; Rev. Vincent Wehrle, of the Benedictine order and abbot of the monastery at Richardson, N. D., Bishop of Bismarck, N. D.

Rev. Joseph F. Busch, head of the missionary band in the archdiocese of St. Paul, Bishop of Lead, S. D. Archbishop Ireland was the consecrator, and was assisted by Bishop James McGrick, of Duluth, and Rt. Rev. James Trobe, of St. Cloud, Minn. Rev. Francis Schaefer was master of ceremonies.

An event of great moment in the Catholic Church, it is said by ecclesiastical writers to have been overshadowed but once in modern times when the pope himself consecrated fourteen new French bishops, and in the United States, the only ceremony which approximated it in significance was when Archbishop Ireland consecrated Bishops Shanley, McGrick and Cotter at the same time.

Under the direction of Rev. Father Schaefer, the procession of about 800 priests and 150 seminarians, formed on the southern side of the spacious grounds, presented a striking appearance as it wound its way underneath the great oak trees to St. Mary's chapel, where the consecration ceremonies were held.

Following the priests, came the bishops, then the bishops elect, and last the archbishop, all in the robes of their offices. The archbishop, in the immense gathering of the faithful witnessed the procession, but owing to the fact that the chapel had seating capacity for only the priests, the public was not admitted to witness the consecration.

The consecration ceremony, which began at 10 a. m., and lasted about three hours, started with the reading of the apostolic commission, followed by the taking of the oath and the examination, the latter made almost in the same language prescribed by the council of Carthage. During the examination the bishops elect professed categorically their belief in the different matters of faith which have been particularly attacked by heretics, especially the doctrine of incarnation.

These preliminaries having been duly observed, the solemn intoning of the mass was begun, the consecrator and bishop elect simultaneously intoning the words of the consecration. The plain chant was intoned by the seminarians. At the conclusion of the consecration ceremony proper, the consecrator and bishop elect, accompanied by prayers and admonitions.

The mass then proceeded with the consecrator and new bishop, celebrating it in union at the same altar. Then came the partaking of communion, which was followed by the investiture of the mitre and gloves previously blessed by the consecrator with much pomp. While the To Deum was intoned the new bishop was enthroned in the episcopal seat. Later he was led between the two assistant bishops around the church, blessing the congregation as he passed along.

The final act of the function was the bestowal of the kiss of peace by the consecrator. The sermon during the consecration was delivered by Bishop O'Dorman, of Sioux Falls, S. D. After the ceremony, the archbishop, the bishops and all the priests, were served with dinner under the trees on the seminary grounds. A public reception was arranged for tonight, permitting friends of the new bishops an opportunity to offer congratulations.

Chicago and North-Western. ATTEMPT TO HANDLE TRAFFIC WITH BUT ONE NIGHT ENGINE

One Switching Crew Taken Off Again Last Night In Order To Reduce Expenses.

Another attempt was made last night to see if the night traffic at the new yards could be handled with only one switch engine but according to results, it was unsuccessful. Several extras from the north were blocked and unable to enter the yards while the Barrington turn around was not made up on schedule time and could not be ordered out until 10 o'clock this morning. Rumors that action similar to that taken during the rush last fall, when two day yardmasters and a trainmaster were appointed for this city, are current again but up to the present time have not been substantiated. It is said that Yardmaster O'Connell, of Harvard, Conductor James Dow and J. C. Ring have been offered the place as trainmaster but as yet, no one has appeared to take charge.

Engineer Joe Wooding has returned to work on 534 and 541 after being off for two weeks. Fireman Mackshaw, who has been relieving him, is on the board.

Fireman R. C. Smith who took engine 1161 dead in an extra to Chicago yesterday, died of heart failure last night and went on the board.

Engineer Charles Yates, who has had charge of one of the night switch engines expects to take 538 and 536 soon with Engineer Spohn.

Machinist James Garrison has again secured a position at the new yards.

C. J. Crundin went to work last night as trainmaster engineer at the round-house.

Frank Hennessy had the comet fever yesterday, an affliction accompanied by trembling and much mental perturbation, not unlike "cold feet."

Engineer Wilson and Fireman Granth brought up an extra from Chicago last night.

Engineer Townsend relieved Chas. Sturritt on 534 and 531 yesterday.

Power of Small Vegetable. Nature manifests her latent power in strange ways. Radishes which it was thought had all been uprooted are growing through the asphalt in the playground of St. George's school, Northampton, England, the site of which was formerly a market garden, and it is feared they may injure the buildings themselves.

FAMOUS OLD LONDON BRIDGE

Men Whose Names Will Live in History Dwell and Worked on the Structure.

For centuries Old London bridge, with its double row of houses, was the home of generations who lived and traded over the Thames waters. Holborn lived and painted there; Osborne, the pretence had leaped through a window in the house of his master, Sir William Hovett, to the rescue of Sir William's daughter, who had fallen into the swollen flood of the river below, and by winning her for his wife laid the foundation of the dual house of Leeds. Crispin Tucker had his shop on the bridge, to which Pape and Swift and many another author of famous made pilgrimages to purchase books and gossip with the waggish shopkeeper. Crispin's dictionary was printed "at the Looking Glass, on London Bridge," and gigantic corn mills dominated the south end of the structure, not many yards from the wonderful Nonsuch House, a huge wooden pile with turrets and cupolas brought from Holland. Such in brief outline was the London bridge which linked the twelfth with the eighteenth century, and which, when it was on its last tottering legs, was removed to give place to its fine successor of our day, the stone in which is said to be nearly double that employed in building St. Paul's Cathedral.

EDGERTON MAN MADE WONDERFUL RECORD

John P. Coon Weighed in Over Six Millions Pounds Of Nineteen Nine Crop Of Tobacco.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Edgerton, May 19.—According to The Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, Mr. John P. Coon, of Edgerton, who has received the purchase of the American Tobacco Co. the past season, has accomplished a record for tobacco receiving that it is doubted was ever before equaled in this state. Since the beginning of the receiving season he has weighed in from growers in different parts of the state something over six million pounds of the '09 crop. During the busy season his dates called for the receiving of from 50 to 75 acres each day, which means the taking in of 50 to 75 farmer's loads. To figure up an outline for this amount of tobacco six days of the week for more than 100 consecutive days has been a job of no small proportions. Few also have a conception of what the handling of six million pounds of tobacco means when it has to be loaded and shipped from receiving points to central warehouses. That amount of leaf would fill four hundred cars to the usual capacity, and this represents the work of one man in receiving the present crop. Who can beat the record?

CENTENNIAL JUBILEE AT SAN BERNARDINO

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

San Bernardino, Cal., May 19.—San Bernardino today began a three days' celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of its founding. It was on May 20, 1810, that a little band of missionaries and soldiers from the San Gabriel mission halted their march and made the camp that grew into the city of San Bernardino.

It was on the feast day of San Bernardino de Sena, and in honor of that saint the "little band" of Franciscan missionaries pronounced the beautiful valley which had been known among them previously as El Valle de San Jose.

SLEEP REMAINS A MYSTERY

No One Has as Yet Been Able to Define Its Exact Cause and Conditions.

All that we know about sleep is that we know nothing about it. The venerable John H. Kellogg—Poulney's father—wrote a book on "The Mystery of Sleep," and left it more of a mystery than ever. A famous psychologist has lately considered the subject in a book that will cure the average case of insomnia if the victim attempts to read it. The effects of sleep are known, but not its cause or conditions.

A medical journal says that brain workers should get all the sleep they possibly can, whether it is nine hours or only five. Some men sleep slow and others fast. The secretary of a manufacturers' association in Boston, a man verging on middle age, has for years worked at high pressure and got along nicely on an average of three hours' sleep a day. Most intellectual active men, however, can't knit up the raveled sleeve in less than eight or nine hours. They sleep slow.

Passing of Famous Landmark. Fulwood's Rents, the little Holborn court leading into Gray's Inn gardens, which will be largely rebuilt, formerly possessed the privilege of "sanctuary," and hence became a notorious resort for fraudulent debtors and still more unimpeachable characters. Yet this dingy "dive" can boast of many glorious memories. Francis Bacon lived here in "Fulwood's House" and valued his furniture at £60, a huge price for that period. Here the "big club and Molbourne and Gates" club met in the reign of Charles II, and here stood Spaul's coffee house, from which several numbers of the Spectator were dated.—Westminster Gazette.

Weight of a Cubic Foot of Gold.—A cubic foot of trinket gold weighs 17,709 ounces; the same quantity of pure gold weighs 17,647 ounces; of gold (cast) 19,258 ounces; of hammered gold 19,316 ounces. The diamond is the hardest known mineral. It is, however, brittle.

SAW THE COMET ON FORMER VISITATION

Mother of Frank L. Stevens of This City Tells of Her Remembrance of Halley's Comet Seventy-five Years Ago.

Mrs. A. A. Stevens, mother of F. L. Stevens of this city, who resides with her other son, L. E. Stevens at 128 W. Gilman street, Madison, is one of the few persons now alive who remember the appearance of the Halley's comet when it made its last visit seventy-five years ago. In speaking of the visit of this celestial correspondent, "if I live to be a hundred years old," said Mrs. Stevens, "I shall never forget that night. It was the twenty-third of November, in my tenth year and the snow was so deep that it had drifted over fences, and the ground was covered with white. When my mother awoke me to see the comet, it was twelve o'clock, midnight, and then I beheld a curious and wonderful thing. The sky was red as blood, and the ground though covered with snow, was as crimson as the sky. The comets falling were like a snow storm in the fall of the comet, seemed to contract and expand with the passage of the great star. The comet itself was brilliantly white, as was also the tail which marked its passage. What was marked upon my childish mind, however, more distinctly than the comet itself, was the dark sky and earth, and the cries of the people. Most of them thought the world was coming to an end, and there was a very exciting time, either and either every one ran, screaming and crying for mercy. Some hid in their cellars, and others called aloud from their houses and in the streets. I am not able to say how long this lasted, but my mother told me that the comet was visible two hours."

Mrs. Stevens observed the comet at that time in Cleveland, O. She was asked if she expected to see the comet this time, but she seemed to think not. One comet in a life time, she felt, was sufficient for her. Nor did she feel that any appearance this time could equal that debut of seventy-five years ago.

ENTIRE WHEAT BREAD MAKES CHILDREN HEALTHY

The entire wheat grain contains every element of nutrition in meat and taxes the eliminative organs less, causing less auto-intoxication, which is the common source of disease, the condition precedent, whatever the exciting cause or determining germ may be. One can live on entire wheat bread indefinitely, better than on the average mixed diet, including meat. Wheat can be bought for two cents a pound, and the best possible flour made by running it, after thorough washing, twice or oftener through a kitchen mill, grinding finer, if possible, than the ordinary food chopper. A little peanut butter (unroasted) may be added to gems made of this flour, baked at low temperature. Children brought up on this diet, with fruit at a separate meal, and having the bread dry enough to prevent heavy eating and compel exercise of the teeth and jaws, will never have appendicitis nor much sickness in any form if allowed to play freely in the open air, and not sent to school too soon, nor overworked—wrecked by overstudy and worry in school and home.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I DO have the very worst luck," pouted the youngest and prettiest member of our stenographers' department, as she fished for the live but pins in the vast reaches of her black hat, coaxed her hair back into puffiness, and began to pin on a fresh pair of white cuffs in preparation for the afternoon's work.

"What is it now?" "Did he take you in earnest this time when you said 'Good-bye forever,' or did someone say something rude about these six inches of superfluous hair pin in the back of your hat?"

The youngest and prettiest stenographer pouted still more. Being so very pretty this was permissible. Otherwise it would not have been. None but a very pretty girl can afford to pout.

"I never saw anything like it," she asserted, loftily ignoring her impertinent questions. "I can't imagine how he happened to be there at just that moment. It's such an out of the way street."

We suggested that we might enlighten her as to how he happened to be there if she told us who "he" was and where "there" was.

"The boss, of course. It was such a dandy day that my chum and I thought we'd take a walk after we had our luncheon. We went down by the markets and we went past a big fruit stand with a whole lot of those big grapefruit on it, and Stella stamped me to pinch one of them."

"I did, of course, and of course that horrid old Italian came out and caught me and called me awful names and half a dozen people stopped to listen, and just then, who on earth should come along but the boss."

"He took off his hat, but he gave me such a look. Ain't it just my luck? He probably thinks I'm a perfect rowdy. What would you do with luck like that?"

Ain't luck a strange word, or rather a strangely abused one? When the law of cause and effect acts to their disadvantage, some people have a way of referring to it as their particular brand of bad luck.

I suppose the lunger who gets caught considers his prison term as just his entirely undeserved bad luck.

It is, I'm sure you'll agree, an almost inevitable law of circumstances that when you do anything unthoughtful or foolish the boss or the school committee, or whatever particular Mr. or Mrs. Grundy is the person most not gratified to you, will undoubtedly turn out to have been present somewhere among the scenery.

You might as well call that unlucky as that you got wet when you go out in the rain.

There is just one way of being sure of being dry when it rains, and that is not to go out in the rain.

And there is just one way of being sure the boss won't see you do some foolish or unthoughtful thing, and that is not to do foolish and unthoughtful things.

Ruth Cameron

Fads and Fashions

New York—Those who expected that with the approach of the summer season fashion would decide upon a certain and definite style of silhouette for women's dresses of delectable itself for some particular period, are sorely disappointed. The uncertainty as to the future is as great at present as it was last fall. "Compromise seems to be the dominant note in the fashions of the day and it seems that for some time to come feminine dress fashions will be based, more or less, upon compromise."

In many instances the new skirts, both for day and evening wear, present quite remarkable examples of a compromise. Just below the line of the waist they start their career with an extraordinary amount of fullness, brought about by sundry gathers, and plaits, and affording a striking contrast to the close-fitting skirts of last season. After allowing to the upper part of the skirt a certain amount of latitude, however, in the way of plaits and folds, Dame Fashion seems to change her mind, and the same dresses in a little lower down are gathered in quite closely in the region of the ankles under a wide band of some contrasting fabric. This broad band of material draws the skirt down and holds it in place, within a limit which is much narrower than any other part of the skirt.

The Russian influence is still felt in outdoor toilettes, though, as the weather grows warmer, the double-breasted coat is modified by leaving off the collar and having a V-shaped opening at the neck, which is very becoming to nearly all figures. This design is suitable for plain faced cloth or cashmere, with embroidered silk and a black patent leather waist belt with a fancy clasp on it, or it could be carried out in colored linen embroidered in white or the same color as the material. The style is so simple that it is eminently suitable for a washing costume.

The separate vest, for which the Louis XVI period, with all its magnificence, is responsible, has made its appearance in Paris and New York, and although it is as yet a rather exclusive garment, it will no doubt prove its right to a place in our wardrobes by its convenience and comfort. It is an addition to any costume and a last beautiful touch. Another recommendation for the vest is its value as a becoming color note and as a means of introducing richness to the otherwise simple coat suit. Paris wears the vest of richly braided or embroidered satin, or of ornate lace with the simple satin coat suit. The combination is the richest street costume of the season. In its less elegant form the vest is made of linen or of wide-waisted plaid or cotton Bedford cord. Plain silk and plain cloth, too, are used, and the make-up of this fascinating masculine garment brought into feminine lines and uses varies from the plainest corded, stitched or strapped edges to most elaborate creations in handwork.

The sheer white goods vest, with lace, galore, is one of the most sumptuous expressions of this style, while the most simple and practical vest is that developed in plain linen for wear with the tailored suit. Every available kind of material and fashion has been used to ornament and fasten the severely plain vest. Four, or even two, gold ball buttons have been brought into requisition as the sole attraction of some of the little forlorn vests bound with gilt braid. Silver filigree buttons and Etruscan gold, as well as colored enamel, have found their way to the fronts of others.

For summer traveling the topcoat is just as important as the various other wraps or jackets that women consider necessary. Whether in motor car, train or on foot, the summer mantles are of varied design and decided utility. The straight silhouette, with no flare at the foot, is the one written for by Paris designers, with, undoubtedly, more attractive results than we usually associate with the convenient slip-over article. The range of materials is wide, including heavy tussor, coarse chevrons and cloths that are of basket weave, while charmeuse, satin and changeable silks under voile are delightfully fashioned into afternoon wraps, with which the Parisienne always covers her afternoon gowns.

One of the striking features of the summer coat is its lining. Of soft fustian in some of the most attractive designs, it generally contributes to a striking whole. White serge is still in high favor; oyster gray and tan lines are delightfully heavy in the new basket weaves, while woolen materials are loose enough to afford comfort without an overburdening warmth. The summer coat is usually ornamented with a marine collar or with long revers that cross and button quite far down. Metal and tortoise shell buttons are used on the summer coat and huge pockets are not lacking. Keep in mind these points when planning this very necessary article in your summer outfit.

An important dress detail is recurring with persistency is the introduction of black plaques. They are used to emphasize the important lines of a costume. The bolero line that is certainly creeping into the newest models of the season is successfully suggested by plaques. The extended yoke frequently can be emphasized by narrow plaques that cross the bodice or the sleeves. The value of a touch of black can never be over-estimated. Plaques afford excellent opportunity for this touch that frequently holds the different tones of a color scheme together in one of effective whole.

Turban closely imitating Oriental styles, are much worn in Paris and are rapidly becoming popular here. They come as a relief from the extremely large hats and the small, closely fitting toque occupies a place which cannot be filled by any other shape. Of supple straw, so soft that there seems to have been little difficulty experienced in plating it into the brain, the turban, swathed with Persian silks, speaks for itself of the possibilities of color and form. Nine predominates in this model, while a row of old-gold silk nozzles in green leaves at one side. The hair forms a soft resting place for the entire form.

Chantilly lace effects are particularly fashionable in women's hose just now and so delicate is the texture of the hose that the lace actually seems to be attached to the skin, and ankle and instep. Hand-embroidered silk stockings are very expensive, but the woman who can embroider may have beautiful stockings at very little cost. They resemble and forget-me-not patterns are the delectable, and there are leaf spray and bowknot effects that look well in self-color embroidery. Black lace butterfly and other motifs may also be used with good effect, great care must be taken, however, that the edges are firmly secured with buttonhole stitches, so that the silk stockings may not ravel away from the lace modulation.

With a pink frock and pink slippers pink silk hose embroidered with rosebuds are worn; with a pale blue frock blue slippers and forget-me-not embroidered hose. The yellow dress has stockings embroidered with a butterfly, and the lavender dress, of course is accompanied by violets embroidered on a lavender ground. Beautiful bridal silk stockings are embroidered with lily of the valley sprays, among which are set motifs of real lace.

For dress occasions more velvet than gold slippers are worn. The dainty velvet pump with high heel and delicately turned sole promises to be exceedingly smart with summer evening frocks.

WOMEN CITIZENS!

By MARY RUSSELL.

The patient attitude of the hard-working woman of the world is so usual that it has almost ceased to be pathetic.

Look at the scrub women of any large building. They are usually old women who have labored the way to better things long ago, and drifted into this work because no other door was open to them.

Talk to the frail looking creature, who spends half her life on her knees in some large building, and you will usually hear the story of a husband dead, or worse—of little children to feed and clothe—of grandchildren who have nothing between them and the poorhouse but this frail pair of arms.

Then go into the office of some man and hear him talk of clinging vines and sturdy oaks if you want to find out how you stand on some subjects.

You will construct a platform right there to stand on. For while we are talking of the liberty of the age, and the advancement of women, we forget that there is a strain of society where the women are just where they were at the beginning of the last half century.

They are still bound by the outlook from the kitchen window and the patch on the baby's apron. And when the blow of adverse circumstances falls, as it so often does, no way of earning a living is open to them save by the labor of unskilled hands at the expense of bodies already work-worn.

What are you going to do with this problem, my advanced club friend?

And you who work in mansions and for the uplift of the heathen, what will you offer as bread to this hungry soul?

I am not one of those who think suffrage is the patent remedy which will cure all evils.

Women and men are very much alike, after all, and there will not be any great upheaval, socially, morally or financially when women take their rights.

But the condition of working women will be better when they are recognized by the men who marry them, as of equal value in the world as themselves.

We have been making laws for men and women of one class. We have been looking at suffrage from the standpoint of the sheltered woman. We have considered only the thinking, active woman of brains and education.

Men are not very deep thinkers, and when they say "we think too much of women to want them to go into politics," they are thinking of the well-groomed, well-educated, well-cared-for women of their own world.

When even such women, with an unendurable influence, written under the condition imposed on them by the laws of the land, how much worse is it for the women who are lower down? The women who are simply an adjunct to a man's comfort, standing little higher than his dog?

Those women need to become citizens. They are suffering under a law which does not admit that they are people free and equal.

Study the little sister lower down when you are thinking, and see that you give her a chance for her life and liberty—the rest of us will take it!

SHOT DOWN BY POLICEMAN.

Innocent Man Is Slain, His Companion Shot—Brother Arrested.

Chicago, May 19.—John Dubinski, twenty-six years old, an innocent man who had just arrived in Chicago with the savings of a lifetime to arrange for his marriage next week and to establish a business, was slain at Hawthorne avenue and Lawrence street by four detectives from whom he was fleeing in the belief that they were hoodlums. He was shot in the back in a fusillade of revolver shots fired at him. One bullet penetrated his heart.

The victim of the policeman's bullet was to marry Mrs. Pauline McGilg.

Michael Ventor, twenty-eight years old, a companion who had accompanied Dubinski from the mining camps at Silverton, Ill., to act as best man at the wedding, was shot in the right arm, the limb being shattered.

Michael Dubinski, a brother of the dead man, was captured and is locked up at the East Chicago avenue station.

The shooting of Dubinski caused a storm of indignation and a demand for a thorough investigation of the conduct of the detectives was made.

A CHANTRELLER MODEL.

Every display of spring and summer millinery includes the Chantreller hat, and one sees them everywhere, some pretty and many caricatured. One of the prettiest seen at a recent social function was a high-crowned toque of soft straw, plaited in at the edge and swathed round with satin ribbon. The role trimming was a handsome feather in delicate shades of cream and yellow, with the head of the bird complete and characteristically mounted. Our cut today gives an idea of the shape and the way the bird was arranged.

THE NEW SEAMLESS SHOULDER BLOUSE.

There is a new spring blouse—the distinguishing feature of which is the absence of shoulder or armhole seams. The whole shaping is achieved by the seam under the arms, which when the back is laid on, the fold of the material results in the fold of the material being cut in one piece, blouse proper being cut in one piece, with the addition of a tiny vest and long under-sleeves. This vest is almost hidden by folds of plaited chiffon, put on in jabot fashion. Parton and collar and cuffs are hand-embroidered lawn, and form a dainty finish.

First Postage Stamp.
The postage stamp made its first appearance in 1839. Credit for its invention was due to James Chalmer, a printer of Dundee who died in 1853. England adopted the adhesive stamp under royal decree on December 21, 1839, and issued the first one for public use on May 6, 1840. About a year later the stamp was introduced into the United States and soon afterward came into use in Bavaria, Belgium and France.

The machine for perforating sheets of stamps was invented and patented by Henry Archer in 1847. The English postal authorities would take no stock in it for some time, but G. F. Munz, member of parliament for Birmingham, made such a firm stand for its adoption that on August 5, 1853, the house of commons appropriated $20,000 for the purchase of the patent and soon afterward perforated stamps came into general use.

Origin of Baseball.
Baseball probably grew out of the old English schoolboy game of "rounders." Some have adduced evidence that it came from the old New England game of "one old cat" or "two old cat," which may be true. The old game of tipcat may also be related. It was played by four, six or eight players, each standing by a hole or base. One of the opposite party threw the cat in a batsman, and every time it was hit they had to run about the bases. Probably rounders and tipcat had the same ancestry. At any rate, baseball belongs to the family. An Englishman seeing a baseball game for the first time might very properly say, "This is rounders made scientific." We took the old game, made rules and amended it until now it stands forth as the national game of America.—Outing.

MONROE STREET TO ## BE MUCH IMPROVED

North Jefferson Street Will Be Paved, Burden of Expense Falling On Property-Owners.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., May 19.—The city council has introduced an ordinance providing for the paving of North Jefferson street from the square to George street. This improvement is but a beginning of extensive improvements which will soon be made on many of the other much-traveled streets. Heretofore the city has stood the cost of all street improvements which have been made, but the owners of the abutting property will be required to stand the expense hereafter.

The city council has authorized the mayor and city clerk to place the block of property on West Russell street at the disposal of the county for a permanent site for the Green county training school for teachers. The committee will be here Saturday to look over the situation.

W. R. C. Reception.
The past presidents of the W. R. C. most delightfully entertained the corps members at their hall in the Karlson block at an informal gathering. It was also the observance of the 25th anniversary of the organization and a "bazaar" of readings and music was given. Mrs. Lida Ludlow read a paper on the "Growth of the W. R. C." and Mrs. Anna E.
Nance gave a brief but interesting outline of history of the corps. Mrs.
Margaret Whitcomb read a paper on "Our National Camerions," which was very instructive and Miss Maud Eller was heard in one of her immortal readings. Following the program the refreshments were served. The occasion is one which will always be remembered by all who were so fortunate as to attend.

Teachers' Want Rises.

elected to take charge of the music in

WHY BE BALD

When Parisian Sage is Guaranteed to Stop Falling Hair, or Money Back?

A luxuriant head of hair is God's delightful gift to every man—to every woman.
If your hair is falling out; if it is splitting; if it is turning gray, if it is full of dandruff, if it is harsh and uncontrollable, then it is diseased, and prompt action should be taken.

Parisian Sage is a real hair restorer; it will darken faded hair; it will stop dandruff in one week; it prevents killing the germs that infect the roots of the hair.

Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world; it is pleasant, invigorating and refreshing. It makes the hair soft, beautiful and luxuriant. Wherever Parisian Sage is known, it is the ladies' favorite hair dressing.

We urge all women who desire beautiful hair, to try Parisian Sage.
If, after using one bottle, you do not say it is the most delightful hair dressing you ever used, you can have your money back. The price is only

This is a fair request, as it has

PINNED HOURS UNDER WRECK.

Clerk Caught Beneath Tons of Iron, Nearly Baked to Death.

Trenton, N. J., May 19.—Spreading rails wrecked a heavy freight engine and caused a sensational wreck on the Reading railway here. Thomas King, a freight clerk, was pinned down for two hours beneath fifty tons of iron and steel while the fire from the boiler slowly baked his back and a priest, a doctor, four nurses and half a hundred laborers worked frantically digging a tunnel to save him from impending death. Five hundred people set up a wild cheer when King was finally dragged forth and hurried to a hospital, where it is said he will recover. King remained unconscious throughout all the ordeal and directed the work of rescue.

COLLEGE BOYS GO ON RAMPAGE.

Thirty-Five Are Arraigned in Court on Charge of Rioting.

Hammond, Ind., May 19.—Thirty-five students of Valparaiso university, at Valparaiso, were arraigned in Mayor Spooner's court for rioting.
Five hundred collegians in the wildest rampage ever known in that city participated in a scandalous riot on Monday night. The rioters, after ransacking the dormitories, paraded the business streets and had several encounters with citizens and the police. They raided two theaters, broke up shows and terrorized women and children. One woman was prostrated.
It is reported that ten students were hurt in the melee with the police.

ANARCHISTS TO BE PEACEFUL.

Convention at Halle Decides to Lay Aside Assassination.

Berlin, May 19.—Anarchists of many countries now in session at Halle have decided to lay aside assassination and terrorism and to concentrate their efforts on peaceful dissemination of their doctrines.

This determination is the more important at this moment, because so many crowned heads are gathering in London to attend King Edward's obsequies.

Fifty-seven delegates, representing anarchist organizations of 15 countries, reached the decision almost unanimously. The chief opponent of the new policy was a woman, who declared rancorously that anarchy can never be attained without assassination.

Steel Strike Ended.

Pasadena, Pa., May 19.—The Bethlehem steel strike was officially declared off, the executive committee of the striking accepting the terms offered by President Schwab of the steel company.

Will Arbitrate Rail Strike.

Little Rock, Ark., May 19.—The strike of machinists on the Iron Mountain and Missouri Pacific systems will probably be arbitrated as the result of a conference.

Captain De Crespigny's Suicide.

London, May 19.—Capt. Claude Champion de Crespigny of the Second Life guards, a member of the Hurlingham club polo team that recently visited the United States, committed suicide by shooting.

Tit for Tat.

The lady of the house was a handsome woman of a nature order of beauty, and when she had completed her toilet she gazed fondly at herself in the glass and remarked to the new maid: "You'd give a good deal to be as handsome as I am, wouldn't you, now?" "Yes," was the maid's answer, "almost as much as you'd give to be my age."

MORAL IN LITTLE INCIDENT

Youthful Salesman's Act of Politeness Started Him on Road to High Position.

Some of the doings of the late Charles Lockhart, millionaire, sound as if they were incidents in a novel.
There was a new jewelry and silver establishment in New York, a big concern now recognized as a leader of fashionable trade. One very hot summer afternoon a tall, sad, and rather ill-dressed old man entered and said he would like to buy a wedding present. He looked like a needy farmer.
The assistants were tired and heated and not at all cordial as the old man passed from counter to counter, pricing things. At last, in the silverware department, he was attended to, by a young fellow, a new man in the shop, who did his best for the customer.
The old man went higher and higher in his examination of silverware. He got to pricing full sets of plate. Finally he said: "Is that the best you've got?" The young man remembered that the firm had begun the manufacture of a specially designed, extra heavy set of plate. The order had been canceled, but several pieces had been finished for show. He got out those specimens. The old man asked how much a complete set would cost. The assistant consulted the manager, who said it would be $50,000. "All right, have it made for me," said the old man. "How much do you want to deposit?" suggested the shopman. "Oh, I'll pay for the whole thing and get it off my mind," and he drew a check for the amount. The young fellow did not recognize the signature, so he took it to the manager and asked if it were good. "Good for a thousand times better than I," replied the manager.

In the Christmas season Lockhart came back to that store. He went right by all the bowing and scraping assistants, and asked for the old man who had sold him the silver plate. When he found him he bought $30,000 worth of presents. That assistant is now a big man in the silver business.

To Cure a Cold.

To a trained nurse is due this somewhat unusual cure for a cold which, if taken in time, she says, is infallible.
To a glass of milk add a teaspoonful of powdered ginger. Sip slowly. If a sneeze of chilliness is felt the milk can be made hot, but not boiled.

This simple remedy has been known to break an apparently bad cold over night, but should be taken when the first creepy sensations are felt.

The Optimist's Corner
Daily Helps to Health and Happiness
By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., D. D.

Most women do not drink enough water. Like many other duties they owe themselves, this little act is neglected in the hurry and push of other things. The physicians tell us that in order to properly flush the body internally at least two quarts of water should be drunk during the day. The most certain method of making sure that you and the children are getting enough water is to have a definite time for systematic water drinking. I have in mind a dear little mother of five promising "kiddies" who takes her pail and dipper promptly at stated intervals and "waters her stock" from the oldest lad down to the baby. By this means she is sure her children are getting fresh, pure water from a clean vessel, and not picking up a drink wherever they can.

Housewife's rheumatism and many other trifling ailments are caused women by the lack of sufficient water drinking. As any other habit may be permanently fixed, so may be the desire for water at stated intervals. If you grow accustomed to a copious drink upon rising, another good draught at 11, and the same during the afternoon, with a good flushing before retiring, you will see the gain in health and complexion, and will soon miss the drink if it is not forthcoming. There is nothing so good and refreshing as pure, sparkling water from a clean, shining tin.

STEAMER FOUNDERS;
150 PERSONS RESCUED
Excursion Boat Hits Bar and Overturns — Passengers Landed Through Officer's Bravery.

Kansas City, Mo., May 19.—Panic-stricken by the realization that they were on a sinking steamer, 150 passengers, men, women and children, struggled and fought madly to escape from the excursion steamer Uncle Sam when it struck a sand bar and capsized in the Missouri river near here.

Their lives were saved by the heroism of Roy Taylor, the engineer, and W. L. Thompson, pilot of the boat. When the sand bar punched a hole in the stern of the boat and she began to sink, the engineer put on full speed ahead and the pilot headed her for the shore, while the passengers, panic-stricken, ran screaming from one side of the deck to the other.

Within ten feet of the shore the boat sank to the bottom and tipped over until her decks were at an angle of 45 degrees. All the lower deck was under water. The passengers clung to the rail of the upper deck, and even there the water drenched the limbs of the men and women on board.

People ran to the river bank from all directions; planks were carried and thrown out in the boat forming a bridge ten feet long, and over this the passengers went ashore.

The only one injured was Booth Laughman, one of the owners of the boat.

Had the boat sunk one minute sooner she would have gone down in the deep channel of the river and many lives would have been lost.

COMET PASSES; EARTH UNHURT.
Gases From Intruder's Tail Do Not Penetrate Globe's Atmosphere.

Williams Bay, Wis., May 19.—Director Edwin Brant Frost of the Yerkes observatory made this statement after he had spent several hours with a spectrum glass to his eyes gazing at Halley's comet:

"The passage of the earth through the tail of the comet has proved that what we have always contended was right and was based on solid scientific facts. We have held always that nothing would happen and nothing has happened."

"There never was the slightest danger to be feared. The gases in the tail of the comet, if gases there be, are much too thin to penetrate the atmosphere of the earth. The particles of solid matter in the tail are too minute to talk about."

Booms Cummins for President.

FATAL DUEL ON BICYCLES.
Only a few years ago Spain was treated to a duel on bicycles between members of a wheel club in Granada. The opponents were posted 700 feet apart, and at a signal began scorching toward one another, each directing his machine with his left hand and brandishing in his right a knife known to the Spaniards as the navaja. There were three clashes, and in the third, one of the fighters drove his knife into the heart of the other.

AN EXALTATION OF THE EGG

Product of the Industrious Biddy is Now Receiving Its Proper Consideration.

Not even the Oriental bird of paradise, the peacock or the skylark of the English poets has been more celebrated in prose and poetry than the common or garden hen. Her praises have been sung in every agricultural weekly and her performance computed in laborious government reports. She has had more free advertising in the news columns than the suffragette, with whom she is often invidiously compared. Some Philadelphians who were sojourning one summer in the hills of western Massachusetts thought that they could obtain eggs from the farmers at rates less than those prevalent in the cities. They were the more deceived. They were required to pay 50 cents a dozen for the wags of the egg trust, industriously circulated among the egg producers, and the whole supply could be sold at the barnyard gate for the metropolitan market price.

The hen has been assailed, in times past, as an incredibly foolish and futile creature. She is spoken of to-day in terms of profound respect. She is no longer a joke; she has become a public utility, and her egg has become a common—or an uncommon—necessity. —Philadelphia Public Ledger.

LIKE SOME OTHER EPITAPHS

Seeming Generosity of Close Fisted Old Man Had Shrewd Purpose Back of It.

"I was called in by a close fisted old merchant the other day," a Boston lawyer remarked, smiling. "He wanted me to draw his will, and this I proceeded to do, following his verbal instructions. Presently he said:

"To each and every clerk who has been in my employ continuously for ten years I give ten thousand dollars."

"This seemed like a considerable sum to me and I ventured a slight protest, as he had a number of daughters and his entire fortune was not large.

"Oh, that's all right," he said, with a crooked little smile. "You know people have always said that I was close and hard, and I want them to think well of me when I am gone."

"I was a little touched, and said something, but he waved it aside and we continued with the draft. When it was finished and as I was about to leave the office, the old fellow smiled again his crooked little smile.

"About those ten thousand dollar legacies," he said, "there isn't a clerk in my place who has been with me over two years—but it will look well in the papers." —The Green Bag.

Insuring Good Service.

A popular girl was departing from an Ontario town for the far west, and her masculine friends were gathered in gallant array to see that she was supplied with violets, roses, magnolias, chocolates, and all the various comforts which the twentieth century girl demands. Her brother addressed a few words of advice to the porter, backed by a silvery enforcement, when a second young man approached. "Here," he said, handing the half of a torn bill to the porter, "I've given the lady the other half, so if you look after her well until she reaches her destination you'll know where to get the rest of your money."

The Black Death.

The terrible plague known as the "black death" began in China about the year 1333, and from China it went by way of the great caravan route to the north of the Caspian, through central Asia to Tauris and on to Constantinople, reaching Europe by 1348. It raged for more than twenty-six years, with a mortality that will never be accurately known, and to this day the results of its ravages are visible. The disease was bubonic in character, and oftentimes was fatal within twenty-four hours after its attack. It was attended by a burning thirst that nothing could allay, and many of its characteristics were too horrible to mention. It is estimated that at least 25,000,000 human beings perished from this great plague.

If all thought alike, there would be no horse trading or advertising.

The Wishing Mouse

—The Rescue.

MIDNIGHT came, and still the twins' father could not bear to go to bed. The same little mice that had made him feel so queerly that morning—and had made old black Taft almost forget he was a cat!

"Papa, oh, papa! It is papa, and Mr. Ticklemouse is with him!" squeaked Dorfy wildly, and Davy stood on his hind legs to see. The mouse tickled where? He groaned at the thought of their loneliness, possibly suffering, and stepped softly into the deserted nursery.

Those two little empty beds! How his heart ached at the sight of them! How many, many times, along in the evening when his own bedtime was near, he had crept into their room to watch his darlings in their rosy sleep! And now—the beds were empty. Davy and Dorfy were gone!

The father sat with his head in his hands, his thoughts far away. Suddenly he cried out in a startled whisper and sprang to his feet. A cold, nervous tap-tap was tickling him back to full wakefulness again.

"Great Scott! Who are you?" He could scarcely believe his eyes, and stood blinking like a stupid schoolboy.

"Mr. Ticklemouse, sir, and I've come to help. But we must hurry—not a sound, now! Follow me." And like a man in a dream, Mr. Dover stole out of the house and down the back alley with his strange companion.

The mouse led the way across the Widow Shelby's lawn, and the father drew back suspiciously. "But—but I don't understand," he muttered. "Where are you taking me?"

"Understand!" snapped the Ticklemouse. "Of course not! What grown-up ever does understand? Well, well," he continued, more kindly as he saw the father's distress. "I guess it's no wonder, but all grownups have to think about. But we really must make haste, you see, if I'm to make up for Willy's carelessness."

"Who's Willy?" asked Mr. Dover, as an infernal scoundrel Higgins had stolen up, they crossed Main Street to the grocery window. But he got no further, for he

"Here, papa—in the cage!" The father whirled, and looked into the window again—and saw the captive mice raise pleading paws toward him . . . just as they had done that morning!

"What under canopy—what does this mean?" He lunged himself against the door and tried to force it open, but the lock was too strong.

"Wait a minute, now!" The Ticklemouse's voice was full of hope. He made the frantic father stand aside—he tickled the steel lock with his magic tail-tip, and—the door swung open! In a moment the twin mice were in their father's arms—with the bars of their cage between.

"Listen, now," said the Mouse, "and do exactly as I say. Take the cage back to the nursery, take a file and file the bars open. Lock the nursery door, and wait. Say nothing to anybody, as you love your children. I'm off to find Willy."

"For, mind you, nobody but poor, frightened Willy Wishingmouse can change your niece's back to your hables again. And if I don't get him there before sun-up, they'll stay nice another whole day. Careful, now!" And he raced away up the long alley.

"How is it, Mr. Ticklemouse," the happy twins asked their friend the next happy night, when he had tickled them awake for a frolic of stories and games, "that dear old daddy has forgotten all about our being nice? Seems if that's the strangest part of the whole business!"

"It would have been the awkward part," chuckled the Mouse. "If I hadn't fixed it before the sun rose. How could we have had any more midnight frolics, if I hadn't corked his memory so he couldn't remember about the nice-rescue? It was easy—just had little Willy Wishingmouse shut one eye and wish your daddy would forget it!"

THE VALUE OF CUMULATIVE ADVERTISING

By W. C. Freeman

(So much has been and is constantly being told about the accumulative advertising, mostly theories calculated to make the advertiser believe that money spent on advertising in injudicious mediums is well spent. "Cast thy bread upon the waters, in time it will come back." But when you read a talk like this, where not merely a statement is made, not merely an argument, not merely testimony, but real EVIDENCE is furnished, one feels that after all it is more than mere talk. To give credit where credit is due, this is talk number 389 of Brother Freeman in the Mail of April 6th. There is meat in it, and the story is told without much dressing.—EDITOR.)

J. L. Parker and Ralph O. Smith were in the rug business for themselves on Thirty-fourth St., which they gave up to go with Joseph Wild & Co., rug merchants.

They were advertisers—not big—but they were steady advertisers.

They have been with Joseph Wild & Co. for more than a year, yet letters continue to come addressed to Parker & Smith at the old address on Thirty-fourth St., making inquiry about rugs as the result of the advertising they did—and they haven't advertised anything at all for fifteen months!

Mr. Parker told me that, after the lapse of a year, he would send a boy over to their old store occasionally and would say to himself—"Surely there won't be any more letters now," but the boy never comes back without bringing a stack of them.

Does this not illustrate the accumulative effect of advertising?

Mr. Parker said recently that he was convinced that five dollars expended in advertising one year meant that it was worth $10 next year, $15 the next, and so on—that its value multiplied, provided in the first place it was the right kind of advertising, stated facts and was backed up by a house of repute.

Advertising men, in soliciting business, always say to a prospective customer—if they are wise—that immediate results from advertising are not overwhelming, but if it is continued intelligently and persistently, the results are bound to come.

One of the greatest aids to us in soliciting business is the fact that we can prove to customers that the effects of advertising are cumulative.

Men who fail to make advertising pay do not go at it with a determination to keep at it until it succeeds. Just running an advertisement occasionally in newspapers or magazines does not often bring satisfactory returns.

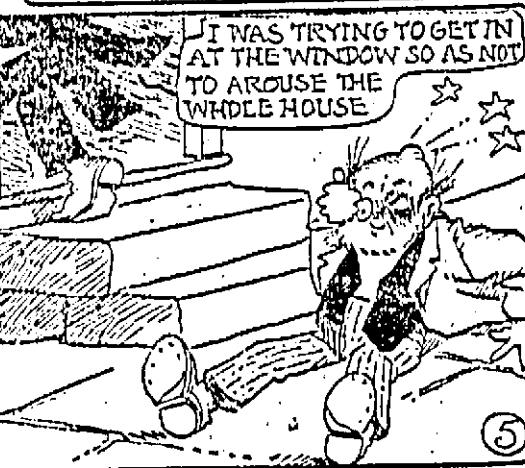

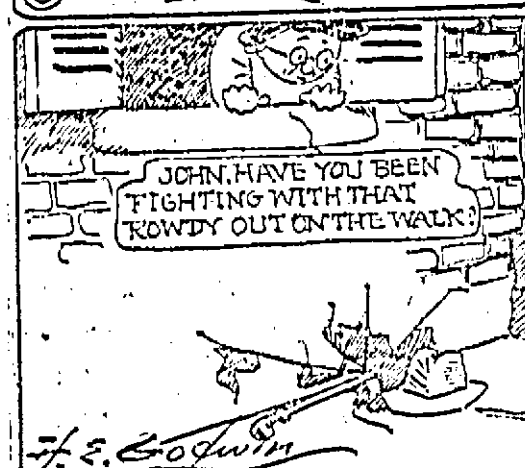

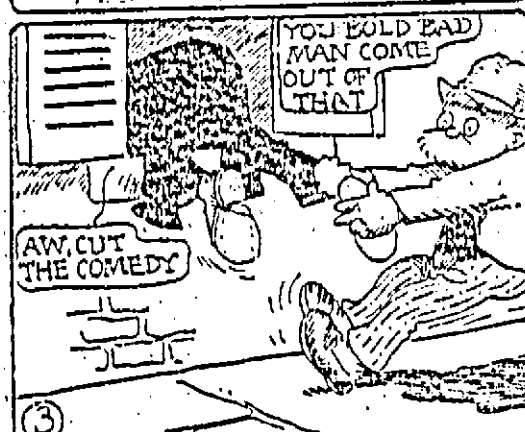

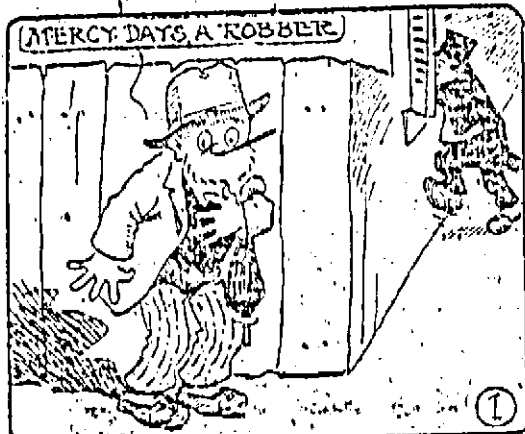

There are exceptions, of course, to this rule, because in the financial district a bond issue is advertised only once or twice or three times, and a new book that is published is advertised perhaps three or four times, but for a mercantile business, that of a manufacturer or a retailer, it is foolish to think of starting an advertising campaign covering a short period.

No concern should think of starting an advertising campaign without having fully made up its mind that it will continue for a year anyway.

The copy used need not necessarily be large, and the expense attached to it need not be very big. Most merchants figure to spend from 1 1/2 to 5 per cent of their gross receipts for advertising.

In the case of Messrs. Parker & Smith, they are able, by reason of the fact that they kept at advertising as long as they were in business, to get trade for the firm they are now with from those people who read their advertising, but who were not ready to buy at the time they read it.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

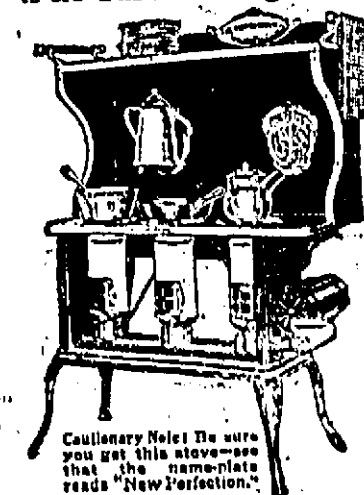

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking—none in outside heating.

New Perfection

WICK BLUE FLAME

Oil Cook-stove

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wick with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

ONE-HANDED FLOUR SIFTER

A Piece of Kitchen Furniture Which Will Be Appreciated.

A flour sifter which may be manipulated with one hand at first thought may not seem like an innovation of any great importance, but the woman who makes her own bread—and the number is legion now—the convenience of this new device will be instantly recognized. For instance, when she turns the sifter down into the bag of flour and withdraws it partially filled she finds she has both hands full. If she releases her grasp on the flour bag it drops down in a heap and more than only the flour is thereby scattered over the floor or table. If she keeps hold of the flour bag she is enabled to manipulate the sifter. The latter operation is not a neglected, for the success of the bread depends in a great measure on the complete separation of the particles of the flour.

In making use of the new sifter shown above the operation of sifting the flour is performed by an attachment connected to the handle so that the flour is fed through the meshes of the sieve by use of the hand which is holding the flour.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

The Palo Alto Ball.

A beautiful woman pleases the eye; a good woman pleases the heart; one is a jewel, the other a treasure.—Napoleon I.

On the evening of that following day in May, the sun hung red and round over a distant unknown land along the Rio Grande. In that country, no iron trails as yet had come. The magic of the wire, so recently applied to the service of man, was as yet there unknown. Word traveled slowly by horse and mule and cart. There came small news from that far-off country, half tropic, covered with palms and crooked dwarfed growth of mesquite and chaparral. The long, horned cattle lived in those dense thickets, the spotted jaguar, the wolf, the coyote, the javalina, many small creatures not known in our northern lands. In the loam along the stream the deer left their tracks, mingled with those of the wild turkey and of countless water fowl. It was a far-off, unknown, unvalued land. Our flag, long past the Sabine, had halted at the Nueces. Now it was to advance across this wild region to the Rio Grande. Thus did smug James Polk keep his promises!

Among these tangled mesquite thickets ran sometimes long bayous, rivers—resacas, as the natives call them. Tall palms sometimes grew along the bayous, for the country is half tropic. Again, on the dryer ridges, there might be taller detached trees, heavier forests—palo alto, the natives call them. In some such place as this, where the trees were tall, there was fired the first gun of our war in the southwest. There were strange noises heard here in the wilderness, followed by lesser noises, and by human groans. Some faces that night were turned to the moon—the same moon which swam so gloriously over Washington. Taylor camped closer to the Rio Grande. But that night at the capital that same moon told us nothing of all this. We did not hear the guns. It was far from Palo Alto to our ports of Galveston or New Orleans. Our cockaded army made its own history in its own unreported way.

We at the White House ball that night also made history in our own unreported way. As our army was adding to our confusion on the southwest, so there were other, though secret, forces which added to our territory in the far northwest. As to this and as to the means by which it came about, I have already been somewhat plain. It was a goodly company that assembled for the grand ball, the first one in the second season of Mr. Polk's somewhat confused and discordant administration. Social matters had started off our enough. Mrs. Polk was herself of strict religious practice, and I imagine it had taken somewhat of a strain to get her consent to these festivities. It was called sometimes the diplomat's ball. At least there was diplomacy back of it. It was more accident which set this celebration upon the very evening of the battle of Palo Alto, May 8, 1846.

By ten o'clock there were many in the great room which had been made ready for the dancing, and rather a brave company it might have been called. We had at least the splendor of the foreign diplomat's uniforms for our background, and to this we added the bravest of our attire, each one in his own individual fashion. I fear. Thus my friend Jack Dandrige was wholly resplendent in a new waistcoat of his own devising, and an evening coat which almost swept the floor as he executed the evolutions of his western style of dancing. Other gentlemen wore, perhaps, more grave and staid. We had with us at least one man, old in government service, who dared the silk stockings and knee breeches of an earlier generation. Yet another wore the white powdered queue, which might have been more suited for his grandfather. The younger men of the day wore their hair long, in fashion quite different, yet this did not detract from the distinction of some of the faces which tonight might have been among them—some of them to sleep all too soon upturned to the moon in another and yet more bitter war, aftermath of this with Mexico. The tall stock was still in evidence at that time, and the ruffled shirts gave something of a formal and old-fashioned touch to the assembly. Such as they were, in their somewhat varied but not uninteresting attire, the best of Washington were present. Invitation was wholly by card. Some said that Mrs. Polk wrote these invitations in her own hand, though this we may be permitted to doubt.

Whatever might have been said as to the democratic appearance of our gentlemen in Washington, our women were always our great reliance, and these at least never failed to meet the approval of the most snoring of our foreign visitors. Thus we had present that night, as I remember, two young girls both later to become famous in Washington society; tall and slender young Terese Chantant, later to become Mrs. Pugh of Ohio, and to receive at the hands of Denmark's minister, who knelt before her at a later public ball, that jeweled clasp which his wife had bade him present to the most beautiful woman he found in America. Here also was Miss Harriet Williams of Georgetown, later to become the second wife of that Baron Rodolfo of Russia who had represented his government with us since the year 1838—a tall, robust, blonde lady who later grew to be Brown's hotel, home of many of our statesmen and their ladies, turned out a full complement. Mr. Clay was there, smiling, though I fear none too happy. Mr. Edward Everett, as it chanced, was with us at that time. We had Sam Houston of Texas, who would not, until he appeared upon the floor, relinquish the striped blanket which distinguished him—though a splendid figure of a man he appeared when he paced forth in evening dress, a part of which was a waistcoat embroidered in such fancy as might have delighted the eye of his erstwhile Indian wife had she been there to see it. Here and there, scattered about the floor, there might have been seen many of the public figures of America at that time, men from north and south and east and west, and from many other nations beside our own.

Under Mrs. Polk's social administration, we did not wait, but our ball began with a stately march, really a grand procession, in its way distinctly interesting, in scarlet and gold and blue and silk, and all the flowered circumstance of broadness and lace of our ladies. And after our march we had our own polite Virginia reel, merry as any dance, yet stately too.

I was late in arriving that night, for it must be remembered that this was but my second day in town, and I had had small chance to take my chief's advice, and to make myself presentable for an occasion such as this. I was fresh from my teller, and very new-made when I entered the room. I came just in time to see what I was glad to see; that is to say, the keeping of John Calhoun's promise to Helena von Ritz.

It was not to be denied that there had been talk regarding this lady, and that Calhoun knew it, though not from me. Much of it was idle talk, based largely upon her mysterious life. Beyond that, a woman beautiful as she has many enemies among her sex. There were dark glances for her that night, I do not deny, before Mr. Calhoun changed them. For, however John Calhoun was rated by his enemies, the worst of these knew well his austere private life, and his scrupulous concern for decorum.

Beautiful she surely was. Her hair gown was of light golden stuff, and there was a coral wreath upon her hair, and her dancing slippers were of coral hue. There was no more striking figure upon the floor than she. Jewels blazed at her throat and caught here and there the filmy folds of her gown. She was radiant, beautiful, apparently happy. She came mysteriously enough; but I knew that Mr. Calhoun's carriage had been sent for her. I learned also that he had waited for her arrival.

As I first saw Helena von Ritz, there stood by her side Dr. Samuel Ward, his square and stocky figure not undistinguished in his dancing dress, the stiff gray mane of his hair wagging after his custom as he spoke emphatically over something with her. A gruff man, Dr. Ward, but under his gruff mane there was a clear brain, and in his broad breast there beat a large and kindly heart.

Even as I began to edge my way toward these two, I saw Mr. Calhoun himself approach, tall, gray and thin. He was very pale that night, and I knew well enough what effort it cost him to attend any of these functions. Yet he bowed with the grace of a younger man and offered the baroness an arm. Then, methinks, all Washington gasped a bit. Not all Washington knew what had gone forward between these two. Not all Washington knew what that couple meant as they marched in the grand procession that night—what they meant for America. Of all those who saw, I alone understood.

So they danced; he with the dignity of his years, she with the grace of her youth, she with the grace which was the perfection of her dancing.

ONE HUNDRED CUBANS KILLED

THREE THOUSAND POUNDS OF DYNAMITE EXPLODES IN PINAR DEL RIO BARRACKS.

THOUGHT TO BE ACCIDENT

Explosive Being Removed at the Time—City Is Shaken and Many Persons Hurt—Two Officers With Families Reported Dead.

Havana, May 10.—Fully 100 persons were killed and nearly as many injured when 3,000 pounds of dynamite exploded and completely destroyed the barracks of the rural guard at the city of Pinar del Rio.

Most of the dead were rural guards, but the entire families of several of the officers of the guard, it is reported, were killed also, as well as several employees of the public works department and residents of the city.

May Be Work of Conspirators. It is not known yet whether the explosion was the result of an accident or was due to an act of conspirators, but the former hypothesis is considered the more probable. Several relief trains, carrying surgeons, officers and men of the rural guard and government officials, started from Havana to the scene of the catastrophe, which is 108 miles distant.

The names of the dead have not yet been reported, with the exception of Capt. Alfredo Havana and Capt. Caspar Belmont of the garrison and their families, who are reported to be buried in the ruins of the officers' quarters adjacent to the barracks.

Barracks Is Demolished. The barracks was a massive building of Spanish construction, and occupied an eminence in the outskirts of the city to the north. During the late intervention it was the headquarters of Colonel Parker's regiment, the Eleventh cavalry.

Adjacent to the barracks was a long row of officers' quarters. Recently the barracks was occupied by the public works department and four troops of rural cavalry. In consequence of the alarm over race disturbances the government ordered all deposits of dynamite in the vicinity in the possession of contractors for road construction and other public works to be removed to the barracks for safe keeping.

The work of removing the dynamite from the barracks for shipment to the government's magazines in Havana was begun by employees of the public works department, assisted by rural guards.

Dead Fill the Court. They were engaged in loading cases of the dynamite on wagons when a terrific explosion occurred, instantly followed by another, stranding the court in which the work was going on with dead and wounded. The whole massive barracks building was destroyed, the adjacent row of officers' quarters was demolished and the whole northern section of the city was deluged with a torrent of fragments of masonry.

STANDARD OIL RAISES WAGES. Increase of From Six to Ten Per Cent. Will Affect 70,000 Men.

New York, May 10.—The Standard Oil company has increased the wages of its workmen from 6 to 10 per cent. The order is retroactive and became effective May 1. It is estimated that the company will add from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 to its annual pay roll expense.

The new scale affects employees engaged in the company's works and factories, but the office men will not be benefited by this increase. Most of the employees who will get the increase are laborers, and the advance applies to all the subsidiary companies in the United States.

The company has approximately 70,000 employees.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP SCORES.

Denver Votes for Referendum and Will Own Its Own Water System.

Denver, Col., May 10.—Municipal ownership scored a triumph in Tuesday's election in Denver, the Denver Union Water company being turned down by more than 3,000 majority, and the proposition to buy its plant or erect a new one being carried probably by a thousand votes. The citizens' amendment for the initiative, referendum and recall was carried by a few hundred majority.

The "wet" majority will run from 15,000 to 17,000. This is the first city of importance where women have voted on the prohibition question.

The Democrats have elected the entire city ticket, excepting the election commission, which is still in doubt.

CHESS IS A MODERN GAME

Has Been So Developed and Amended That Inventor Would Hardly Recognize It.

Chess is but a game, a pastime, a relaxation, but it has at times absorbed the faculties of the intellectual in every clime. It numbers among its number the greatest names of battlefields and thrones; it tells of warriors, poets, painters, sculptors, statesmen and divines; it possesses a literature and language of its own; it makes enemies friends, and finds a temple on the ocean, in the fortress, and by the peaceful fireplace. Perhaps the greatest eulogy on the game was the remark of Sir Walter Raleigh: "I do not wish to live longer than I can play chess." It is certain that those who do not play the game are quite unable to form any conception of the high intellectual delights experienced by the enthusiast.

The origin of chess has been sought in vain. The fact is, the game has changed, developed and improved down the course of centuries, so that in its present form it would not be recognized by its inventor. If there ever was one. The oldest chess problem on record is thought to be that contained in an ancient Persian manuscript attributed to Caliph Kalfon Mutash Hishah, who reigned in Bagdad A. D. 833 to 842. But the reader would have to learn the old rules before it was intelligible. For example, the queen could make a move of only one square at a time, and that one diagonal, but a queen promoted from a pawn was allowed to make a move of two squares diagonally. The bishop had no power over any square except the third from which it stood on its own diagonal line, but it was allowed to vault over any piece that happened to be between. In short, it was a totally different game. Chess, in the precise form in which we know it and play it today, is a comparatively modern game.

Refreshments Not Wanted.

The rector of an English church, seeing that there was only one almsdish and that the congregation was unusually large, beckoned to a rustic and bade him to go through the garden to the rectory dining room and bring a dish from the table. "Take it down one side of the north aisle and up the other," he said, "and then bring it to me." The rustic came back with the dish, as ordered, and presented it to the people on either side of the aisle. Then, approaching the rector, whispered in his ear. "I've done as ye told me, sir. I've taken it down one side the aisle and up 't'other—they'll none on 'em 'avo any." No order had been given to empty the dish, and it was full of biscuits.

GETTING EVEN.

Fyle.—Same place where you buy your cigars. I'm smoking it for revenge.

And Returned.

"He says his poems are read by the brightest people in the country," "So they are." "I never saw any of them." "No, you see they are read by the editors only."

NOW WHICH?

She.—Do you prefer an ugly woman with brains or a pretty woman without?
He.—Madame, I prefer present company to either.
(And she is still wondering exactly what he meant.)
